BIO

Craig Davisson AIA, Principal at Studio9 Architecture Ilc., has been involved in a number of significant civic projects such as Unity Plaza, the University of North Florida Fine Arts Center the Times-Union Performing Arts Center. As a key designer for the Jacksonville Federal Courthouse, Craig was also involved in the Initial Action Plan, River City Renaissance Plan, and the Better Jacksonville Plan. His career has been oriented towards residential housing with the 220 Mixed Use Development, numerous multi-family projects and his most recent work, The Waterfall Condominiums, Jacksonville Beach's contemporary ocean front hi-rise. His background was partner of Rink Design Partnership Inc. in Jacksonville.

Craig is a recognized talent in senior living design, having master planned communities in West Palm Beach, St. Augustine, Atlanta, Marco Island and Naples that continue the dignity and quality of life for our aging population. Craig's diverse project experience includes multi-family housing, award winning commercial office designs, and master plans. His civic work is with the Jacksonville Zoo, the Boys and Girls Club, and the Public Improvements Master Plan and Public Pier design for The Shipyards in Downtown Jacksonville. His design of the new Hendrick's Avenue Baptist Church sanctuary after the tragic fire has become a community milestone.

Born in Ohio, Craig has lived in Luxembourg, Maine, and Louisiana and has been a Jacksonville resident for over 32 years. He received a B.S. and Bachelor of Architecture from Kent State University with studies in Florence, Italy. Craig is a member of the AIA and currently sits on the COJ Downtown Review Board.
